FROM THE DESK OF THE DIRECTOR OF JOY

Why Me?

In late September this year the world lost a singer, poet, and minor theologian, Kris Kristofferson. Coming onto the country/folk music scene in the early 1970's, he gave us "Jesus Was a Capricorn," reminding us all of the true humanity of Jesus. He also wrote and sang "Why Me," reshaping the lament into a reminder of God's goodness.

Here's the first verse:

"Why me, Lord?

What have I ever done
to deserve even one
of the pleasures I've known?

Tell me, Lord:

What did I ever do
that was worth lovin' you
or the kindness you've shown?"

Get it? The Kristofferson's song flips on its head all of the times we've whined about how unfair life is, or how little God loves us, or how we've not deserved the ills, the problems, the sadness in our lives. It reframes our complaint, "I don't deserve this (misfortune)," turning it into gratitude, "I don't deserve (these many blessings)!"

Kristofferson's little song invites us to see our lives as half full, not half empty. He helps us remember while we complain about our misfortune, we might as easily remember many blessings that we enjoy. In our worst moments we might do well to remember our best moments, too.

This November, no matter what is going on in our lives, we each have much for which to be thankful. Indeed, gratitude is the beginning of spiritual growth. Being merely human, we too often frame our lives as a social media post: "Look at me. Look at what I've done. Look at my family, my work, my success." In reality, so much of what I have, what I've accomplished is because of God's goodness, not my own. And any wealth I've accumulated in this year or in this life is a gift. Simply a gift.

Our best response is simply gratitude. And may that gratitude become the seed of our generosity. May we generously offer to our church, our neighbors, and any in need, a share of the kindness, the goodness, and the generosity of a loving God that have been gifts we've received this year.

Happy Thanksgiving, Asbury.

Tips for a Meaningful Thanksgiving

1. Reflect on God's Blessings

Before the Thanksgiving meal, take a few moments to reflect on the many blessings in your life. Whether you're surrounded by family, friends, or even if you're celebrating alone, a simple prayer of gratitude can shift your focus toward all the good God has provided, no matter the challenges of the year.

2. Start a Gratitude Tradition

Encourage each person at the table to share something they're thankful for before the meal begins. You could even write these blessings down on slips of paper and place them in a "Thankfulness Jar" to be read aloud at Christmas or the New Year. This is a great way to keep the spirit of thankfulness alive throughout the holiday season.

3. Serve Others

Thanksgiving is the perfect opportunity to reflect Christ's love by serving others. Consider volunteering at a local food pantry or shelter as a family or donating meals to those in need. Acts of service not only bless others but also deepen the gratitude we feel for our own provisions.

4. Include Scripture in Your Celebration

Incorporate Bible verses that focus on thankfulness and God's provision. Verses like 1 Thessalonians 5:18 ("Give thanks in all circumstances; for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus") can be read aloud as part of the prayer, or even placed on decorative cards at each person's seat.

5. Unplug and Be Present

In our tech-filled world, it's easy to get distracted by phones and screens. Make a family commitment to unplug from technology during your Thanksgiving gathering. Focus on meaningful conversations, laughter, and creating new memories with loved ones.

6. Express Gratitude Through Letters

Take time to write letters of thanks to people who have had a meaningful impact on your life this year. Whether it's a mentor, pastor, friend, or family member, a handwritten note of appreciation can go a long way in lifting others' spirits and reminding them of their importance in your life.

7. Plan a Post-Thanksgiving Reflection

After the day's festivities, take a quiet moment to reflect on the day with your family. What moments stood out to you? Where did you see God at work in your interactions and conversations? This post-Thanksgiving reflection can help carry a spirit of gratitude into the days ahead.

8. Simplify the Meal, Emphasize Connection

While preparing a large feast is a tradition, don't let it overshadow the real meaning of the day. Consider simplifying the meal so that more focus can be placed on fellowship and togetherness. Sometimes less elaborate meals allow for more connection and less stress.

COASTAL INTERFAITH GREEN TEAM

November 2024

October was a great month and with it came the wonderful fall weather that helps us forget about the summer's heat and humidity and the damage from Hurricane Helene.

October was also filled with a number of environmental activities that our members participated in:

October 19

Rivers Alive clean-up at Harmon and Hayners Creeks. Rivers Alive is a state program focusing on protecting and improving the quality of the nation's rivers, and in October the City of Savannah joined many other groups across Georgia to organize cleanups.

Volunteers for this year's cleanup included members of Clean Coast, the Ogeechee Riverkeeper, students from local schools and universities, and staff from local hotels and businesses.

October 19 – October 24

Our friend Maria Vaughn at Code of Return Compost asked for volunteers to help bag compost at their work site on the Bethesda campus and to man composting stations at the RSM Classic Golf tournament at Sea Island. Several Green Team members pitched in to help out. www.corcompost.com

October 24 – October 27

The Savannah Tree Foundation co-sponsored the International Tree Climbing Championship at Daffin Park from October 24-27th.

This four-day event was hosted by the International Society of Arborists and featured professional tree climbers competing in a series of challenges that showcase skill, techniques, and athleticism while emphasizing the importance of safety and proper tree care. In addition, there was an Arbor Fair at which attendees could visit different booths from local vendors. On Saturday, October 26 the Savannah Tree Foundation hosted its annual Trick or Trees community giveaway.

November 2

Savannah Tree Foundation will be hosting its annual Volunteer Day at their Community Tree Nursery at the Seapoint Industrial Complex. Volunteers will be moving tree saplings into the next pot size up, caring for trees that will be planted later in the season, and will be doing some light construction projects to keep improving the work site.

Whippoorwill Farms

Finally, some of you will remember our visit to Whippoorwill Farms in Ridgeland, South Carolina several months ago. The owner of the farm, Marissa Paykos, suffered a serious fall in September and is incapacitated for the next several months. She is expecting a baby and fortunately the baby is fine, but Marissa will be in recuperation for some time. Her friends had set up a Go Fund me site, but it is no longer accepting contributions. However, this might be a good time to support her business at the Saturday Forsyth Farmer's market and online.
